To whom it may concern

I have known Mr.Öztürk through his work in our company as a vocational training student for a period of five weeks. During his service in our Citybus Marketing and Public Sales Department, it was quickly apparent that Mr. Öztürk is a dependable, reliable, peace-loving and conscientious person who had respect to both colleagues and senior management of the company. Mr.Öztürk also demonstrated a good work ethic and interpersonal skills. His willingness to learn captured my appreciation. He was not contented with what he was given by his masters and he always put extra effort to learn more.

Apart from his positive personal character, he seems that he has dedicated himself to improve his technical knowledge in the fields related to industrial engineering. His ingenuity and problem-solving ability distinguished him from other training students. He was able to bring his theoretical and practical knowledge together quickly to offer suggestions for the model problems presented by ourselves. In addition, his communication skills on duty attracted my attention.

Overall, Mr.Öztürk has my full support. I would be more than happy to provide further information if required.

Yours faithfully,

Akif NURAY
