

Students will present their presentations on the following topics;

- Current industrial energy storage applications of carbon materials
- Carbon materials in other energy storage and conversion devices

Some discussions will be held after each presentation.