Jstor

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL jstor.org. The browser's address bar includes navigation icons (back, forward, refresh), a search microphone icon, a share icon, a tab indicator showing 8 tabs, and a menu icon. Below the address bar is a search filter bar with a dropdown menu set to "Sort by: Relevance" and a checkbox for "Show snippets" which is currently unchecked. Below the filter bar is a grey bar with the text "Export Selected" and a dropdown arrow. The main content area displays a search result for a "JOURNAL ARTICLE". The article title is "Ornament \(Kazari\): An Approach to Japanese Culture". The author is "Tsuji Nobuo". The publication information is "Archives of Asian Art, Vol. 47 (1994), pp. 35-45". Below this, the "Topics" section lists several related terms: "Chinese art, Japanese art, Painting, Japanese culture, Recreation, Renaissance art, Wheels, Festivals, Art criticism, Decorative arts". At the bottom of the article entry are three buttons: a dark teal "Save" button, a grey "Download PDF" button, and a white "Cite this Item" button with a teal border.

Scopus

The screenshot shows the Scopus Preview website interface. At the top, there is a browser address bar with the URL "scopus.com" and navigation icons. Below the address bar is the Scopus logo and the text "Scopus Preview". To the right of the logo are links for "Author search" and "Sources", and buttons for "Create account" and "Sign in". A large grey banner below the navigation contains the text "Welcome to Scopus Preview". Underneath this banner are links for "What is Scopus" and "Blog", and social media icons for LinkedIn, Twitter, Facebook, and YouTube. The main content area is divided into four sections:

- Check access: A section with the heading "Check access" and the text "Check if you have access through your sign in credentials or via your institution." Below this text is a blue button labeled "Check Scopus access".
- Check out your free author profile!: A section with the heading "Check out your free author profile!" and the text "Did you know Scopus offers free profiles to all indexed authors? Review yours, claim it, and update it — all for free!" Below this text is a blue link "View your author profile >". To the right of this text is a screenshot of the "Search for an author profile" form, which includes fields for "Author last name" and "Author first name", an "Affiliation" field, and a "Search" button. Below the form are links for "About Scopus", "Language", and "Customer Service".
- Scopus content: A section with the heading "Scopus content".
- Looking for free journal rankings and metrics?: A section with the heading "Looking for free journal rankings and metrics?". To the right of this text is a screenshot of the "Sources" page, which includes the heading "Sources" and a paragraph of text: "Introducing CiteScore metrics for journals. We are proud to introduce CiteScore metrics for journals — comprehensive, current and free metrics for journal titles in Scopus. Search or browse below to find a source and view the new metrics. Use the annual metrics for reporting, and the 5-year metrics for journal ranking. We have to cite publications as well as the below quantitative inputs when presenting your research impact."
